Sen. Bernie Sanders, I-Vt., said Tuesday that Congress needs to overhaul the Affordable Care Act, but as a senator, he's not going to repeal it or vote to take it away from people. Instead, Sanders said, the ACA "should be completely overhauled." He went on to say that he has never voted to repeal a law, and "I intend to make certain that we do not take away affordable health insurance from millions of Americans." Sanders and a bipartisan group of 17 senators sent a letter to President Barack Obama on Tuesday urging him to consider a one-year delay to the individual mandate, which requires that people purchase health insurance. The senators also said they want the IRS to come up with a plan to help people who chose not to purchase health insurance. The IRS already has a mechanism to grant extensions for people who can't afford insurance, but many people don't apply. Sanders said the mandate was designed to force younger people to get insurance. "They were told that it was mandatory," Sanders said. "It wasn't mandatory, they found that out only when they had to get health insurance in order to stay on the job." Sanders said the IRS should offer some relief to those people who can't afford insurance. In a statement, Ryan Rudominer, a spokesman for the National Republican Senatorial Committee, said Sanders is putting his Senate constituents and his campaign donors before the people of Vermont. "Senator Sanders supports President Obama's radical health care plan, and has voted to raise taxes and destroy jobs," Rudominer said in the statement. "He has a record that puts him more in line with the big government socialist agenda that caused the economic downfall of so many Vermonters." Sanders also faces criticism from the Rev. Al Sharpton. "Sen. Sanders is just another candidate who uses the race card and is very familiar with playing class warfare," Sharpton said in a statement. "We must be careful not to divide against each other as this country is going through difficult times. "Sen. Sanders is all about going down the same road President Obama took," Sharpton said. "He wants to remain within the confines of the same failed policies that have failed the black community. Sen. Sanders and President Obama both need to take a national journey to bring back a sense of community." Sharpton spokesman Charles K. Haywood says there is no difference between the two candidates.

A recombinant Dictyostelium discoideum gene encoding a cytoplasmic protein with putative alpha-actinin-binding activity. The cytoplasmic component of an m5S rDNA-encoded type II membrane vesicle fraction purified from Dictyostelium discoideum, which is required for cell recognition and aggregation, has been identified as a polypeptide with a Mr of 14,500 in sodium dodecyl sulfate/polyacrylamide gel electrophoresis (SDS/PAGE). This polypeptide is specifically bound to the cytoplasmic face of the plasma membrane from Dictyostelium discoideum and as a consequence is present in the conditioned medium. The protein has been purified by a series of affinity and ion-exchange chromatographies and shown to be a basic protein with a Mr of 14,500. The affinity column for the protein was a p-aminobenzamidine sepharose column and its elution with 1.5 M KCl indicated that the basic nature of the protein was due to a high number of lysine residues. The protein was also recognized by a monoclonal antibody for Dictyostelium discoideum plasma membrane-actinin adducts and by an antiserum against purified Dictyostelium discoideum alpha-actinin. Partial amino acid sequence analysis revealed the presence of residues which are known to be essential for the interaction of alpha-actinin with actin. . I s 2 a f a c t o r o f y (j) ?
